2024 IEEE SOLI Conference Announcement

June 22-24, 2024, Macau, China

The 18th IEEE International Conference on Service Operations and Logistics, and Informatics（SOLI2024）will be held on June22-24, 2024 in Macau, organized by IEEE ITSS Macau Chapter. Service science, service operations, logistics, and informatics are playing an increasingly important role in today's world economy. Information, communication and security technology provides cyber-infrastructure and platforms to achieve more efficient, productive and safe service operations. New types of service offerings are also emerging to meet the needs of Smart Nation. This conference will provide an exciting opportunity for the academic and industrial communities to address new challenges, share solutions, and discuss future research directions towards a Smart and Sustainable Nation.

Unless otherwise notified by the conference organizers, participants are ultimately responsible for expenses related to the conference and are solely responsible for obtaining any required travel visas to the host country.
